HARDING SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE A NEW KEYNOTE

Republican Nominee at Notification Ceremonies
Discusses Problems
Confronting Nation

"HOLD HERITAGE AMERICAN NATIONALITY UNIMPAIRED"

Advocates Party Responsibility As Distinguished From Dictatorial and Autocratic Personal Rule—In Referring to League of Nations, Says We Do Not Mean to Shun a Single Responsibility of This Republic to World Civilization—Favors Protective Tariff, Merchant Marine, a Small Army, Woman Suffrage and National Budget.

Marion, Ohio. —(Special)—Warren Harding was officially notified here of his nomination as the Republican candidate for the presidency. His speech of acceptance is, in part, as follows:

Chairman Lodge, Members of Notification Committee, Members of National Committee, Ladies and Gentlemen: The message which you have formally conveyed brings to me a realization of responsibility which is not underestimated. It is a supreme task to interpret. The covenant of a great political party, the activities of which are so woven into the history of this republic and a very sacred and solemn undertaking to offer the faith and aspirations of the many millions who adhere to that party. The party platform has charted the way, yet somehow, we have come to expect that in negotiation which voices the faith of nominees who must assume specific tasks.

Let me be understood clearly from the very beginning. I believe in party responsibility in government. I believe in party government as distinguished from personal government, individual dictatorial autocracy or what not.

No man is big enough to run this great republic. There never has been one. Such domination was never intended. Tranquility, stability, dependability—all are assured in party responsibility and we mean to renew the assurances which were rendered in the constitutional war.

Our first commitment is the restoration of representative popular government, under the constitution, through the agency of the Republican party.
Our vision includes more than a chief executive. We believe in a cabinet of highest capacity, equal to the responsibilities which our system contemplates, in whose councils the vice-president, second official of the republic, shall be asked to participate. The same vision includes a cordial understanding and coordinated activities with a house of Congress, fresh from the people, voiding the convictions which members bring from direct contact with the electorate, and cordial cooperation along with the restored functions of the Senate fit to be the greatest deliberative body of the world.

It is not difficult, Chairman Lodge, to make ourselves clear on the question of international relationship. We Republicans of the Senate, conscious of our solemn duties and mindful of our constitutional obligations, when we saw the structure of a world super-government taking visionary form, joined in a becoming warlike of our devotion to this republic. If the torch of constitutionalism had not been dimmed, the delayed peace of the world and the tragedy of disappointment and Europe's misunderstanding of America might easily have been avoided. The Republicans of the Senate halted the barrier of independent American influence and influence which it was proposed to exchange for an obscure and unequal place in the merged government of the world.
Our party means to hold the heritage of American nationality unimpaired and unimpaired.

The world will not misconstrue. We do not mean to hold aloof. We do not mean to shun a share responsibility of this republic to world civilization.
There is no hate in the American heart. We have no envy, no suspicion, no aversion for any people in the world. We hold to our rights and mean to defend, yes, we mean to sus-tain the rights of this nation and our citizens alike everywhere under the shining sun. Yet there is the concord of unity and sympathy and fraternity in every resolution. There is a genuine aspiration in every American breast for a tranquil friendship with all the world.

One may readily sense the conscience of our America. I am sure I understand the purpose of the dominant group of the Senate. We were not seeking to defeat a world aspiration—we were desirous to safeguard America. We were resolved then, even as we are today and will be tomorrow, to preserve this free and independent republic.

In the call of the conscience of America is peace, peace that closes the gaping wound of world war and silences the impassioned voices of international envy and distrust. I feel this call and knowing as I do the disposition of the Congress, I promise you formal and effective peace as quickly as a Republican Congress can pass its declaration for a Republican executive to sign.

It is better to be the free and disinterested agent of international justice and advancing civilization, with the covenant of conscience, than be shackled by a written compact which surrenders our freedom of action and gives to a military alliance the right to proclaim America's duty to the world. No surrender of rights to a world council or its military alliance no assumed mandate, however appealing, ever shall summon the sons of this republic to war. Their supreme sacrifice shall only be asked for America and its call of honor. There is a sanctity in that right we will not delegate.

Disposed as we are, the way is very simple.

Let the fallow attending assumption, obstinacy, impracticability and delay be recognized, and let us find the big, practical, unselfish way to our part, neither covetous because of ambition nor hesitant through fear, but ready to serve ourselves, humanity and God. With a Senate advising as the constitution contemplates, I would hopefully approach the nations of Europe and of the east, proposing that understanding which makes us a willing participant in the consecration of nations to a new relationship, to commit the moral forces of the world, America included, to peace and international justice, still leaving America free, independent and self-reliant, but offering friendship to all the world.

It is fully to close our eyes to outstanding facts. Humanity is restive, much of the world is in revolution, the agents of discord and destruction have wrought their tragedy in pathetic Russia, have lighted their torches among other peoples and hope to see America as a part of the great re-fracturing. Ours is the temple of liberty under the law and it is ours to call the sons of opportunity to its defense. America must not only save herself, but ours must be the appealing voice to color the world.

It must be understood that toll alone makes for accomplishment and advancement, and righteous possession is the reward of toil and its incentive.

There is no progress except in the stimulus of competition.

The chief trouble today is that the world war wrought the destruction of healthful competition, left our store-houses empty, and there is a minimum production when our need is maximum. Maximums, not minimums, is the call of America. It isn't a new story, because war never fails to leave depleted storehouses and always impairs the efficiency of production.
We also establish its higher standards for wages, and they slide. I wish the higher wage to abide, on one explicit condition: that the wage earner will give full return for the wage received.

I want, somehow, to appeal to the sons and daughters of the republic to every producer, to join hand and brain in production, more production, honest production, patriotic production, because patriotic production is no less a defense of our best civilization than that of armed force. Profitteering is a crime of omission, underproduction is a crime of omission.
We must work our most and best, else the destructive reaction will come.

The menacing tendency of the present day is not chargeable wholly to the unmet and fevered conditions caused by the war. The manifest weakness in popular government lies in the temptation to appeal to group citizenship for political advantage.

It would be the blindness of folly to ignore the activities in our own country which are aimed to destroy our economic system and to commit us to colossal tragedy which has destroyed all freedom and made Russia impotent. This movement is not to be halted in thoughtless inertia. We must not abdicate the freedom of speech, the freedom of press or the freedom of assembly, because there is no promise in repression. These liberties are as sacred as the freedom of religious belief, as inviolable as the rights of life and the pursuit of happiness. We do not hold the right to crush addition to stifle a menacing contempt for law, to stamp out a peril to the safety of the republic or its people when emergency calls, because security and the majesty of the law are the first essentials of liberty.

He who threatens destruction of the government by force or fraud, he who contempts lawful authority, ceases to be a loyal citizen and forfeits his rights to the freedom of the republic.

No party is indifferent to the welfare of the wage-earner. To us his good fortune is of deepest concern, and we seek to make that good fortune permanent. We do not oppose but approve collective bargaining, because that is an outstanding right, but we are unalterably insistent that its exercise must not destroy the equally sacred right of the individual, in his necessity pursuit of livelihood. Any American has the right to quit his employment, so has every American the right to seek employment. The group must not endanger the individual, and we must discourage groups preying upon one another, and none shall be allowed to forget that the government's obligations are alike to all the people.

We are so confident that much of the present day insufficiency and inefficiency of transportation are due to the withering hand of government operation that we emphasize anew our opposition to government ownership.
We want to expedite the reparation and make sure the mistake is not cepeated.

A state of inadequate transportation facilities, mainly chargeable to the failure of governmental experiment, is losing millions to agriculture, it is hindering industry, it is menacing the American people with a fuel shortage little less than a peril. It emphasizes the present day problem and suggests that spirit of encouragement and assistance which commits all America to relieve such an emergency.

Gross expansion of currency and credit have depreciated the dollar just as expansion and inflation have discredited the coin of the world. We inflation in haste, we must deflate in deliberation. We debated the dollar in reckless finance, we must restore in honesty.

In all sincerity we promise the prevention of unreasonable profits, we challenge profiteering with all the moral force and the legal powers of government and people. But it is fair, aye, it is timely, to give reminder that law is not the sole corrective of our economic ills.

Let us call to all the people for thrift and economy, for denial and sacrifice.
If need be, let a nationwide drive against extravagance and luxury to a recommitment to simplicity of living, to that prudent and normal plan of life which is the health of the republic.

New conditions which attend amazing growth and extraordinary industrial development, call for a new and forward looking program. The American farmer had a hundred and twenty millions to feed in the home market, and heard the cry of the world for food and answered it, though he faced an appalling task amid handicaps never encountered before.

Contemplating the defenselessness of the individual farmer to meet the organized buyers of his products and the distributors of the things the farmer buys, I hold that farmers should not only be permitted but encouraged to join in co-operative association to reap the just measure of reward merited by their arduous toil.

Our platform is an earnest pledge of renewed concern for this most essential and elemental industry and in both supervision and interest we pledge effective expression in law and practice. We will halt that co-operation which again will make profitable and desirable the ownership and operation of comparatively small farms intensively cultivated and which will facilitate the carrying of the products of farm and orchard without the lamentable waste under present conditions.

America would look with anxiety at the discouragement of farming activity either through the government's neglect or its paralysis by socialist practices. A republican administration will be committed to renew regard for agriculture and seek the participation of farmers in curing the ills justly complained of and aim to place the American farm where it ought to be, highly ranked in American activities and fully sharing the highest good fortune of American life.

Increasingly associated with this subject are the pulchre of irrigation and reclamation so essential to agricultural expansion and the continued development of the great and wonderful west.
It is our purpose to continue and enlarge federal aid, not in sectional partiality but for the good of all America.

I believe the budget system will effect a necessary helpful refutation and reveal business methods to government business.

I believe federal departments should be made more business like and send back to productive effort thousands of federal employees, who are either duplicating work or not essential at all.

I believe in the protective tariff policy and know we will be calling for its saving, Americanism again.

I believe in a great merchant marine, I would have this republic the leading maritime nation of the world.

I believe in a navy ample to protect it and able to assure us dependable defense.

I believe in a small army but the best in the world, with a mindfulness for preparedness which will avoid the unutterable cost of our previous neglect.

I believe in our eminence in trade abroad, which the government should aid in expanding, but in revealing markets and speeding cargoes. I believe in establishing standards for immigration which are concerned with the future citizenship of the republic, not with mere man power in industry.

I believe that every man who dons the garb of American citizenship and walks in the light of American opportunity, must become American in heart and soul.

I believe in holding fast to every forward step in unshackling child labor and elevating conditions of woman's employment.

I believe the federal government should stamp out lynching and remove

SALIENT POINTS IN SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE.

"I pledge fidelity to our country and to God, and accept the nomination of the Republican party for the presidency of the United States."

"The humus element comes first, and I want the employers in industry to understand the aspirations, the convictions, the yearnings of millions of American wage earners."

"The constitution contemplates no class and recognizes no group. It broadly includes all the people, with specific recognition for none."

"We approve collective bargaining."

"Gross expansion of currency and credit has depreciated the dollar. We will attempt intelligent and courageous deflation."

"When competition—natural, fair, compelling competition—is suppressed, whether by law, compact or conspiracy, we halt the march of progress, silence the voice of aspiration and paralyze the will for achievement."

"I promise you formal and effective peace so quickly as a Republican Congress can pass its declaration for a Republican executive to sign."

"I can hear the call of conscience as loudest voice for largely reduced armaments throughout the world."

"Our vision includes more than a chief executive. We believe in a cabinet of highest capacity equal to the respon-
templates, in whose councils the vice-president, second official of the republic, shall be asked to participate."

that stain from the fair name of America.

should give its effective aid in solving the problem of simple and becoming housing of its citizenship.

I believe this government should make its liberty and Victory bonds worth all that its patriotic citizens paid in purchasing them.

I believe the tax burden imposed for the war emergency must be revised to the needs of peace, and in the interest of equity a distribution of the burden.

I believe the negro citizenship of America should be guaranteed the enjoyment of all their rights, that they have earned and full measure of citizenship bestowed, that their sacrifices in blood on the battlefields of the republic have entitled them to all of freedom and opportunity, all of sympathy and aid that the American spirit of fairness and justice demands.

I believe there is an easy and open path to righteous relationship with Mexico. It has seemed to me that our undeveloped, uncertain and inferior policy has made us a culpable party to the governmental misfortunes in that land. Our relations ought to be both friendly and sympathetic; we would like to acclaim a stable government there, and offer a neighborly hand in pointing the way to greater progress.

I believe in law enforcement. If elected I mean to be a constitutional president, and it is impossible to ignore the constitution, unthinkable to evade the law, when our every commitment is to orderly government.

The four million defenders on land and sea were worthy of the best traditions of a people never warlike in peace and never pacifist in war. They commanded our pride, they have our gratitude, which must have genuine expression. It is not only a duty, it is a privilege to see that the sacrifices made shall be requited, and that those still suffering from casualties and disabilities shall be abundantly aided and restored to the highest capabilities of citizenship and its enjoyment.

The womanhood of America, always its glory, its inspiration and the potent, uplifting force in its social and spiritual development, is about to be enfranchised. Insofar as Congress can now, the fact is already accomplished.
My party edict, by my coerced vote, by personal conviction I am committed to this measure of justice. It is my earnest hope, my sincere desire that the one needed state vote be quickly recorded in the affirmation of the right of every citizen shall be coal and counted in the approaching election.

And to the great number of noble women who have opposed in conviction this tremendous change in the ancient relation of the sexes as applied to government, I venture to plead that they will accept the full responsibility of enlarged citizenship and give to the best in the republic their suffrage and support.

Ours is not only a fortunate people, but a very common ancestral people, with vision high but their feet on the earth, with belief in themselves and faith in God. Whether enemies threaten from without or menaces arise from within, there is some indelible voice saying, "Have confidence in the republic, America will go on."

The Original Budget.
The word "budget" was originally the name of the leather socket in which the cavalry used to rest the butt of their carbines. It also means a small wallet or purse. It became associated with the annual financial statement of the chancellor because he took the statement he was about to make from his case. The word was highly objected to at the time, but it stuck.

TAKE GAME FROM PRINCETON

Yesterday afternoon the Princeton base ball club came over with the rest of Princeton and played our Marion Reds.

Considering the heavy field the game was played on it was one of the fastest games played this season. The fielding on each side was well high perfect such errors as were made being excusable because of the condition of the grounds. Jimmie Kimsey just went and out did himself at second, exhibiting some of the fanciest second basing seen here this season. Gossage had the goats of the Princeton sluggers eating out of his hands and was in control of the situation at all times, though once or twice things looked like they were going to be exciting but he pitched himself out of each situation successfully. All the boys put up a dandy good game of ball and the fans accused of them.

Princeton's mighty pitcher, Hoss-bach, was driven to cover early in the game, after some two or three of our boys had given the ball a plunge in the ditch cuning through right field. Kimsey put one in the grave yard that would have been a count but ticket had the paths been dry, as it was he legged it into third standing up.

The final score was four for Marion and one for Princeton. The two teams play again at Princeton next Tuesday. There will be a special train run from Marion, leaving here about 12:30 P. M. and returning shortly after the game is over. All the local fans who can possibly get away are urged to go over and root for the boys and show Princeton that they have nothing on us when it comes to sending a crowd along with their team. The round trip fare will be only $1.62 and just look at the fun you will have. Tickets will be on sale at J. H. Ormes, Haynes & Taylors, Givens Restaurant and both barber shops as well as the Press office which can be exchanged at the depot for the regular railroad ticket.

LIGHTNING DOES MORE DAMAGE

On Sunday night, Mr. John M.
Guess, who resides near Tolu lost a very fine mare, having been killed by lightning. The lightning played queer tricks, it appeared to have struck the barn in which these were several head of stock twice, only injuring the one mare which was killed.
It is remarkable to note how the lightning coursed its way through the dry hay in the barn without igniting it. Mr. Guess lost a large stock of hay in the field.

The damage which was done to the barn was not covered with insurance, but Mr. Guess was very busy next morning taking out insurance on all his property.

SPECIAL TEACHER'S EXAMINATION

Supt. J. L. F. Pacia, Marion, Ky.
My dear Superintendent:

In order that we may be able to take care of the teacher shortage in a number of counties, there will be held in each county on the first Friday and Saturday 6 and 7 of August an examination for elementary and state certificates. A number of teachers are anxious to teach but are not legally qualified. I wish as many desirable applicants as possible to take this coming examination. The law requires at least three examinations at stated periods. It allows other examinations to be held whenever necessary.

Give this examination as much publicity as possible. Do not under any circumstances employ, or allow to begin school any teacher who is not legally qualified.

With cordial good wishes,
Sincerely,
Geo. Colvin, State Supt.

THREE CALVES LOSE 20 POUNDS IN 25 MINUTES

The story of how three calves lost twenty pounds in twenty five minutes while cussing from Kentucky to Indiana is told by Mr. G. P.
Heath.

About one half minute later when cussing the three calves put on again the twenty pounds they had lost.

The story is told by Mr. G. P.
Heath, President of the Trimble County Farm Bureau as follows:
"A general complaint has been going throughout the county on the weights the farmers received on their livestock at the hands of the Peac Packing Company, better known as the Yonkers place. The matter was reported to the State Farm Bureau at Lexington, Ky. and that organization took it up with the Indiana Federation, and brought the investigation, which is as follows.

"On May 19th, I received a letter from Geoffrey Moran, Lexington, Ky., Secretary of the State Farm Bureau, with a copy of another letter enclosed from Mr. H. C. Reid of the Indiana Federation of Farmers Association of Indianapolis, Ind., asking him to meet the Scale Inspector at Madison on Monday night, May 24th. On account of previous engagements Mr.
Morgan could not meet him and asked me to represent him, also to make arrangements for some stock to be weighed, which together with Secretary J. L. Luckett, I did.

"After meeting the Inspector, Mr.
White of Shelbyville, Ind., he suggested that we come to the Kentucky side Tuesday morning and tested a scale on which to weigh three calves being hauled by the Bedford Truck consigned by M. E. Sanders, M. T.
Fisher and Theodore Persell to the Pearl Packing Co. Mr. White came to the Kentucky side and tested the three above mentioned calves, loaded same back in the truck, and followed them to the Peac Packing Company's scale, where they were weighed twenty-five minutes later by Gus Yonkers in person. Immediately after the calves had been weighed and the tickets for same issued, Mr. White, the Indiana Scale and Weight Inspector who was waiting just on the outside, walked in and called for the tickets and when examined found them to be twenty pounds short.

"Mr. White demanded that the calves be re-weighed, without testing or changing the scale in any way.
The calves were driven back on the scale and re-weighed by Mr. White, weighing exactly what they did 25 minutes previous on J. P. Strother's scales at Milton, Ky. Mr. Yonkers only defense was that all live stock dealers bought by up weight and ordered Mr. White to change the tickets to correspond with his weights.

"The result of this one short weight of twenty pounds meant in dollars and cents a loss of $2.00 to the farmer. Those who are familiar with the volume of business done by this Company can readily see from this shortage what the losses might mean to the farmer during a period of twelve months.

"The Farm Bureau throughout the country are conducting these investigations and intend to continue. All to farmer asks is a square deal from the Pearl Packing Company, or any other company. If this investigation and publication does not bring celants the Farm Bureau will offer a remedy in its next article.

"G. P. Heath, President Trimble County Farm Bureau."

A LETTER FOR WOMEN

From a Woman Whose Serious Illness Was Overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Carnett, Kas.—"I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a complete nervous breakdown following the birth of my oldest child. I got up too soon which caused serious female trouble. I was so weak that I was not able to do my housework at all. I had a bad pain in my left side and it would pain terribly if I stepped off a curbstone. One day one of my booklets was thrown in the yard and I read every word in it. There were so many who had been helped by your medicine that I wanted to try it and my husband went to town and got me a bottle. It seemed as though I felt relief after the second dose, so I kept on until I had taken five bottles and by that time I was as well as I could wish. About a year later I gave birth to a ten pound boy, and have had two more children since and my health has been fine. If I ever have trouble of any kind I am going to take your medicine for I give it all the praise for my good health. I always recommend your medicine whenever I can."—Mrs. E. E. SWEET SANDWICHES TO TAKE THE PLACE OF CAKE.

A sweet sandwich is a dainty which may be made in an emergency when small cakes are not at hand and they are always appropriate to serve with lemonade, tea, cocoa or coffee.

Cinnamon Sandwiches.—Use white or Boston brown bread, unadorned. Mix three tablespoons of granulated sugar with one teaspoonful of cinnamon. Spread a slice with the cinnamon and sugar mixture and cover with a slice well buttered with cream butter. These go well with cocoa.

Date and Orange Sandwiches.—Blend one-half cupful of finely-chopped dates with two tablespoons of orange juice; use on buttered whole wheat bread. These are nice with lemonade.

Coconut Sandwiches.—Take one cupful of freshly grated coconut, one-quarter cupful of walnuts, chopped, one teaspoonful rosewater, one tablespoonful of powdered sugar; mix well; add three tablespoons of thick cream and spread on buttered white bread.

Honey and Pecan Sandwiches.—Mix four tablespoons of honey with two tablespoons of chopped pecans. Split hot baking powder biscuits and fill with the mixture. The biscuits should be baked about an inch thick.

Strawberry Sandwiches.—Take half a cupful of fresh strawberries, cut crosswise into slices. Cream one tablespoonful of butter; add three tablespoons of powdered sugar and spread on slices of unbuttered bread. Lay on the sliced strawberries in a single layer and cover with a slice of buttered bread.

Neapolitan Sandwiches.—Grind three tablespoons of pistachio nuts to a paste. Cut five three tablespoons of preserved cherries; mix with softened fondant or honey to make of the consistency to spread. Spread on buttered white bread.

Oriental Sandwiches.—Take one-half cupful each of preserved ginger and candied orange peel, chopped fine; mix three tablespoons of thick sweet cream with the fruit and use on white buttered bread.

It is easy to find fault. If one has that disposition. There was once a man who, not being able to find any other fault with his coal, complained that there were too many prehistoric fossils in it.—Fuddrhead Wilson's Calendar.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE FAMILY.

An easy pastry and one which may be kept for several days in the ice chest is prepared as follows: Take one cupful of lard and one-half cupful of boiling water, add one teaspoonful of salt and stir until the lard is dissolved, then add three cupfuls of sifted flour, mix well and set away to become cold. This makes the crust for three covered pies and the pastry is delicate and tender.

Cherry Sponge.—Take two cupfuls of canned cherries, two eggs, three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, one-fourth of a cupful of hot water, three-fourths of a cupful of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt. Beat the yolks of the eggs until thick and lemon colored. Add half the sugar gradually and beat until smooth. Add the flour mixed and sifted with the baking powder and salt. Add the whites of the eggs beaten stiff and dry. In the bottom of a buttered baking dish put the cherries. Pour the batter over and bake in a moderate oven forty minutes. If the cherries are not sprinkle them with sugar before covering them with the batter. The sauce from the fruit will be all that is necessary to serve with the pudding.

Scalloped Noodles.—This is a dish which offers a variety of combinations. Prepare the noodles—those made at home are much better than the carton variety. Take veal and chicken broth with gravy and small pieces of the meat, make layer of the noodles, meat and gravy and finish the top with crumbs. Bake in a hot oven long enough to cook the noodles. Serve hot as a luncheon dish. This is called warmen in Chinese restaurants.

Cherry Cake.—Cream together three tablespoons of shortening and one cupful of sugar; add one egg well beaten and two-thirds of a cupful of milk with two cupfuls of flour alternately, adding two tablespoons of baking powder and a half teaspoonful of salt. Mix well and cover the top of the cake with a quart of pitted cherries; sprinkle with cinnamon and bake. Half the sugar may be used in the cake, the rest reserved and mixed with the cherries.

Soviet Russia on Last Legs

Reports From Many Sources Indicate Early Collapse of Bolshevism.

EMPIRE'S SUPPLIES USED UP

Industries Unable to Meet Country's Requirements—Broken Railroads Complete Disintegration of Authority.

Washington.—Soviet Russia is on the eve of collapse in the opinion of the best informed officials and diplomats in Washington. The best confidential official information has indicated for some time that the soviet leaders were confronted by such a failure of their economic and social experiment as probably to bring about the downfall of the Lenin regime this year. Now it seems probable that the collapse will come even sooner.

Col. Edward W. Ryan's report from north Russia, after a visit to that part of the country with the Estonian peace mission, that soviet Russia will not be able to hold out for six months, is considered both important and significant by high officials here.

Col. Ryan's ability as an observer of Russian conditions is well known to officials, and they do not believe he has overestimated conditions as they exist in Russia. Other reliable reports reaching Washington, through official or diplomatic channels, during the last few days, indicate that the soviet government of Russia is no longer able to carry on a general disintegration which has been steadily taking place within the bolshevik organization.

From a neutral government information has reached Washington that conditions in Petrograd are extremely bad in every respect.

In well-informed quarters here the belief exists that the soviet regime is weaker at present than at any time since the summer of 1918. It has been stated by at least one authority intimately conversant with Russian affairs, who hitherto has been convinced of the permanent establishment of the bolshevik authority, that the present reports reflect so radically from previously received news to indicate a possibility that within six months the soviet power as it exists today will be a thing of the past.

Disintegration Confessed.—A marked tendency toward disintegration within the soviet state characterized recently published reports by the bolshevik leaders with particular reference to the economic situation in Russia. The reports were not intended for publication abroad. These reports commented upon the critical nature of the economic situation with soviet Russia, the demoralization of transport facilities, and the inability of the demoralized soviet industries to utilize even such raw materials as could be obtained and transported to the factories.

The bolshevik leaders, in these same reports, also gave attention to the existence of a acute labor shortage in Russia simultaneously with a notably slack demand for labor because of the reduced industrial production.

All three of the documents said that Russian industry was falling far short of meeting the country's most urgent requirements, and that there appeared to be no available means of remedying this situation. It was stated that Russia had been living on supplies left over from the period of the Russian government. These supplies were rapidly being exhausted and bolshevik industry was incapable of replenishing them.

The reports maintained that the situation would not be improved by the lifting of the blockade and the resumption of international trading, since Russia could only purchase materials from abroad with raw materials of Russian origin, and these could be neither produced in sufficient quantity nor transported by the Russian railways to where they would be needed. Similar critical conditions were stated to exist in the matter of fuel and food supply with a resulting growing discontent among the people.

Corroboration of Colonel Ryan.—The report of Colonel Edward W. Ryan, Red Cross commissioner for north Russia and the Baltic states, transmitted through Red Cross channels and published a few days ago, is regarded as significant in official circles in that it confirms what the soviet reports had indicated. Colonel Ryan visited soviet Russia with the Estonian peace delegation and his first-hand observations confirmed previous analyses and show how rapidly the untenable economic conditions in Russia are resulting in a disintegration of the bolshevik organization.

Through neutral countries the state department has received confirmation of many of the points brought out in Colonel Ryan's report.

Advices through official channels have shown lately that the soviet organization has at no time been able successfully to extend its authority with any completeness into the rural districts even of central Russia. Its control in the cities and the industrial centers has been complete and this control is said to have extended along the railway lines from point to point. It has not, however, according to the reports, extended into the rural districts further, on the average, than three miles on either side of the railway line.

GERMAN DOUBLE DEALING PROVED

Documents Found After Volunteers Fled Town in Rhineland Prussia.

WOULD EVADE PEACE TERMS

Convicted of Perfidy—One of Its Own Confidential Orders—Security Police Really a Military Organization.

Paris.—Time and again the Berlin government assured the allies that it was living up to the conditions of the peace treaty of Versailles to the best of its ability. It one of its own confidential orders the Ebert-Bauer-Noske outfit has been convicted of perfidy.

When the Volunteer Corps Ludowicz did in great haste from Koenigsberg, Prussia, during the recent uprising it left behind its archives, which, when searched, disclosed, among other documents, the following self-explanatory confidential order:

"Ministry of Imperial Defense—Army Command—January 22, 1920. No. 111-119 g. T. 2 II. Neutral Zone.

"In reply to the reports submitted by the Army Command 1b in No. 1847-224 of December 22, 1919, the following general order is issued:

"The Ministry of Imperial Defense requests that the commander of the Fourth and Fifth army districts be instructed in reference to the motion of district four, part 1a No. 223-12 of November 27, 1919, and in reference to the motion of district five, part 1b No. 14, of December 15, 1919.

"The alliance of our enemies has consented that the staff of the army district and the troops of occupation remain within the neutral zone until three months after the Versailles peace treaty went into effect, that means until April 10, 1920.

"The Ministry of Imperial Defense will open negotiations in order to obtain the permission to maintain the staff of the army district and the garrisons within the neutral zone after April 10, with the understanding that these units not be included in the army, the maximum strength of which has been restricted to 100,000 men.

"In case it falls in these attempts the Ministry of Imperial Defense plans to transfer the members of the staff and battalions within the neutral zone to the Security Police.

"The Security Police would have to take the place of the garrisons. In order to complete such a transfer, it must be, without delay, the Prussian ministry of the interior has already made arrangements for the establishment of a Security Police in the neutral zone. The Prussian ministry of the interior has been requested to state if it was possible to transfer the staff of the military district to the Security Police. An answer has not yet been received.

"Representatives of the Security Police stated that it would be impossible to transfer the units of the garrisons to the Security Police.

"Co-operation of the military district commanders in the preparation of the Security Police within the 60 kilometers (neutral) zone is to be restricted to oral advice, as far as possible, in order not to increase suspicion of the enemy alliance, which already is suspecting the Security Police of being a military organization.

"I don't see any reason why it should not be ascertained how many members of the troops under your command are eventually willing to join the Security Police.

"By order: Schmeilwind."

CONSERVE OIL, WARNS U. S.

Consumption in United States is Exceeding Production, Says Bureau Director.

Washington, D. C.—With oil consumption in the United States exceeding production, Director Manning of the bureau of mines predicted that in less than twenty years the supply of oil underground would be exhausted. If the demand for gasoline and other oil products continued to increase as it has during the last few years, the United States, he said, would have to depend on other countries for part of its supply.

The geological survey estimates that more than 40 per cent of the supply in all oil fields in the United States has been exhausted. Director Manning said that the yield of north Texas fields during 1920 would be less than last year.

"Promising fields in Louisiana have proved to be large, but not as extensive as many had anticipated," he said.

DODSON WARNS CALOMEL USERS

You Cannot Grip, Sicken, or Salivate Yourself If You Take "Dodson's Liver Tone" Instead

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with your bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea. If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents, which is harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money. If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great, full of antibodies, and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children; they like it.—Adv.

NOBLE RELICS OF THE PAST WILLING TO STRIKE BARGAIN

Triumphal Arch of Titus, at Rome, and the Colosseum, Are Splendid in Their Ruin.

The triumphal arch of Titus in Rome was built in 70 A. D., to commemorate the defeat of the Jews, and was dedicated to the Emperor Titus after his death. It is adorned with fine sculptures in relief. On the frieze outside is a sacrificial procession and on the inner side Titus is seen crowned by Victory in a quadriga driven by Roma. On another part of the arch is a triumphal procession of Jews, the Table of Shew Bread and the seven-branched candelstick. In the center of the vaulting the consecrated emperor is seen being carried to heaven by an eagle.

In 1822 the arch was a set of ruins, and some of the medieval additions were removed and it was partly reconstructed. The Colosseum, with seats for 50,000 spectators, originally called the Flavian amphitheater, was completed by Titus in the year 80 A. D., and derives its later name, probably, from a colossal statue of Nero. The Colosseum is now all in ruins.

GET RID OF YOUR UNPROFITABLE HENS

Lexington, Ky.—Experience has demonstrated that it is possible to cull out the non-laying hen, sell her thereby, save the feed that she would consume and at the same time secure practically as many eggs from the fowls remaining. Farmers are urged to go over their flocks of chickens sometimes during August, September or October and cull out the hens that have already shed their feathers, as they are not the hens that will lay the most eggs during the year. It has been found that as many as 15 percent of the flock can be eliminated in this way and the farmer will still get as many eggs from the remaining 85 percent in the meantime, save the feed that these boarder hens would consume. Circular No. 74 has just been issued by the College of Agriculture giving full particulars for this culling work. This circular can be secured by simply writing a post card to the College of Agriculture, Lexington, Ky.

HIS CHOICE

By JESSIE DOUGLAS.

"You don't think she's pretty?" Kitty asked scornfully. "Why, her eyes are blue!" she opened her own brown ones to their widest and gave William Davey a glance through fringed lashes. "Really, a faded blue, I think!" And she paused—my, how that girl paused!

"Why, I thought—"

"That's all you know about it, then!" she answered almost snappily. "And Marcia's features aren't a bit regular."

"I went into the library to get a book I couldn't find and she showed me just where it was in the shelves—smart little thing—"

"Of course, if Marcia wants to work it's all very well, but I think a girl's place is at home—at least a girl of our class," she said decisively.

Then she looked up at William Davey and said, "Aren't you starved? I am!" A dimple throbbed deep in her curving cheek, caught his eye and he admitted to himself that Kitty was the prettiest thing he knew.

He watched Kitty's hands as they flew about the preparations, soft white hands with pink oval nails. She lighted the lamp under the chafing dish and rang for Sarah. When Sarah came in to the room bearing a tray that held cheese and butter and toast and tall glasses, William's eyes were again fascinated by the skill and rapidity of those soft hands of Kitty's as they stirred the bubbling mess in the chafing dish.

It was a delicious rabbit and Kitty and William laughed and chattered, but underneath it all William was conscious of a discomfort that he could not place.

When he had said good night and the door had banged after him, Kitty came back into the sitting room and threw herself down angrily on the big couch.

"Fool!" she cried to the pillows. "He's a fool! Why doesn't he propose? I wouldn't even think of taking him if his father didn't own the Davey mills—old stupid!"

"I'll soon make William stop living the simple life. After he marries me he'll have to give up that room over a shop on Fairview street and stop being a workman in the mills!" She blew out the candles beside the mirror and climbed the stairs undauntedly.

William Davey, walking home through the darkness, was thinking of Kitty—and thinking hard. "Jova, but she was pretty. A bit flighty, of course, and lots of notions. That about not working, for instance, when her father really needed her help."

He thought of Kitty again suddenly, when he went into the library a few nights later, returning the book on merchants that he had been studying. He remembered as he handed the book across the counter to Marcia Haden that Kitty had said her eyes were faded. Faded? He looked into their translucent blue depths quite forgetful of what he was doing until he saw Marcia's cheeks begin to deepen their rose. "What?"—no, Kitty was mistaken there, Marcia didn't faint. Funny how girls could get those things wrong. "Could you show me?" he stammered, "where I'd find the second volume of this?"

He followed her into one of the long, dimly, book-lined passages while she pointed out the book sitting snugly on its shelf. She reached up to it and as she did William saw her profile, not regular, but with a certain piquancy, a certain something that drew his eyes back to hers.

"I say," he asked, "what time do you get through here?" "At nine," she smiled; and William wondered why two such simple words should sound so charming. "Is there anything else I can do for you?"

"Yes, you can let me walk home with you," he said.

She did not answer "yes" or "no," but when at nine he stood waiting for her, she smiled demurely up at him. All the way home he caught glimpses of her face beneath the lighted street lamp; and as at last she stood on her own doorstep, with the yellow light falling on her, he wondered why he had never noticed her before.

But it was Marcia herself who startled him. "I'm leaving here in a month," she said, "I've been offered a much better position in Rockport." She held out a bare hand and then as he took it in his big one, she said, "Oh, don't please, don't look at it!" and drew back the roughened little hand.

"You see my hands aren't soft because I take care of the stoves," she said.

William suddenly saw another pair of hands, soft, white, with oval pink nails; for some reason a curious lump got in the way of his talking.

"Good night," he said at last.

Why was it that that small rough hand should come before him again and again on his way home? And those expressive eyes, and a mouth neither small nor bow-shaped but gentle in its curves? He let himself into his own quaint chamber at last and before he struck a match he spoke aloud to himself in the darkness.

"If it hadn't been for Kitty, I would never have known that the other girl existed! I wonder if I've got a chance," he pondered.

While over on High street a girl lifting a shovelful of coal into the fire with a small roughened hand was smiling radiantly, as she looked into the tiny blue flames that leaped up to meet her.

Historic Bells

The largest bell ever cast was done in Russia in 1653, and to the intense disappointment of its makers it was cracked in the casting. The bell weighed 198 tons. The earliest record of bells is to be found in Exodus, where they were used as tripping for Aaron's robe at the hem, "a golden bell and a pomegranate." The pomegranates were in brilliant colors and the bells tinkled to announce to the people when he came and went from the altar.

Skill Often Counts for Most

You often read advertising, especially that of automobiles and fine tools in which the ad writer makes much of "workmanship."

There is no industry in which skill counts for more than in the printing industry. It takes years of patient effort to become a skilled craftsman—it being a science that cannot be inherited nor learned by being where you can hear a press running.

All work produced in the printing plant of The Crittenden Press is the product of a skilled workman. It is positively the only place in Crittenden county where you can get REAL PRINTING—the only shop that has a printer in its employ.

Knowing what good workmanship is and therefore what it costs to produce it we are in a position to quote you the lowest price that this kind can be produced for and leave us a reasonable profit—to which every business is entitled.

Quality and service is our motto—and if you want to be served quickly and well, let us handle that next printing order of yours.

THE LIVING ROOM

I started this series with the intention of going from the front porch to the kitchen. And since the last article was on the use of pillows, both inside and out, but really intended for the porch, this article would necessarily be the next thing we come in contact with as we enter the house. Parlor? No. We are or should be thankful that we do not have such horrors to contend with and think of in these modern times. I think nearly everyone will agree with me that a parlor, other than the very formal ones in large houses, were nothing but a very uninviting, dust catching, gift catching, fast resting place of the grandparents elaborately framed pictures that could only remind us of the past and forever casting gloom where sunshine should have been. The passing of the parlor was a real joy to the home lover.

The living room, the joy of any congenial household, look at yours and then ask the question that is asked every day. What's wrong with it? It is a question with a different answer for every one that asks it. There are two things in common that we must consider. First color, next arrangement. Usually we do not have color enough in it. A little touch of color will often save it from gloom, if the scheme is in yellowish gray and burnt orange, a touch of brilliant turquoise will relieve it. A bright yellow pillow, or better still, a glazed yellow vase filled with a variegated bouquet will relieve a room of mauve and putty scheme. The one of a dark green scheme demands a touch of flame color etc.

The most pleasing living rooms are of deep toned floors, neutral walls, and a lighter ceiling. Mauve and green in the best colors for the living room. Never reds, unless you are getting old. Comfortable pieces are a roomy, well made davenport, two large chairs, a table that is large enough to hold books and papers upon it. Add to these beautiful smaller pieces, chairs, tables, a book case or book shelf, a musical instrument and such other accessories as you may have. And light, lots of light well placed. For the informal living room a chaise longue or a day-bed is permissible, but if the space permits the davenport may be used for a better advantage. The arrangement, a lot depends upon the season of the year, the big pieces drawn closely snuggling up to the fireside while they have a sense of cheer and comfort before the glowing fire, seem to take on a silly aspect when the fire is no longer there and then too, what woman does not take a rather mischievous pleasure in changing it as it is usually friend husband's pet peeve. Interesting grouping in furniture has become quite a study. And while I do not like pictures they are as indispensable to some living rooms as the bed is to the bedroom.

SEPTEMBER RAPE CROP SAVES TANKAGE COST

Lexington, Ky.—With tankage being worth approximately $20 a ton it will be highly profitable for the farmer to sow in corn a crop of rape which can be hogged down in September and the cost of feeding tankage largely offset. From the middle to the last of July is the best time to sow rape to be hogged down in the fall.

Rape can be sown broadcast at the rate of eight pounds to the acre and covered with a small fourteen tooth cultivator. When hogs are turned in on green corn and rape the cost and use of tankage is reduced. When the crop of rape is sown after the middle of July there is much less danger of the destruction by grasshoppers which so often injure early sown rape.

What a Woman Can Do. It is not only wicked to swear; but it is so needless, and a woman can put all the rage and contempt that any possible circumstances could call for into the simplest and perfectly moral exclamation: O, you!—Ohio State Journal.

All men have minds of their own, but some rent them out to others for a price.

It's easier to tell others how to run their business than it is to run your own—but not so profitable.

The world is full of wise men—in their own estimation.

Many foolish men know all things. A few wise ones know a little.

Many people destroy what popularity they have by angling for more.

In the sunny days of summer the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love—and the high cost of loving turns it off again.

We are all firm believers in the right of every man to vote his own sentiments. But of course his views should coincide with ours in order to be sound and logical.

We have great admiration for the man who boasts his own town. We hope there are none of the other kind here.

All men see a few of their own faults. Their friends see the rest.

No two men ever think exactly alike, though one often does the thinking and others agree.

It is never too late to turn over a new leaf but don't let it be a dead one.

And now it will be quite the correct thing for all sorts of people without brains to inquire into the mental capacity of our respected candidates for the presidency.

Agricultural Column

By G. M. GUMBERT

The Farm Bureau held one of the most enthusiastic meetings of the year last Saturday. Mr. W. W. Harris of Morganfield gave a splendid practical talk on Farm Bureau work and has kindly promised to be present at our next meeting on August 7.

President J. I. Clement appointed the following seven members as directors in their respective districts: Geo. Hill, W. N. Weldon, J. A. Hill, H. C. Rice, Dallas Dunning, R. B. Clement and W. B. Rankin.

A rally meeting which will be held in the Marion High School auditorium has been planned for Saturday, August 7. Mr. Harris will again address us and every farmer in the county should hear his talk, whether a member or not, we invite, we urge you to be present because we want to help you help your self. Each director will begin work in his district at once to advertise the meeting and canvass for members. The farmers of Crittenden HAVE organized and are accomplishing results.

The busy season is over, August 7 is the date, the school auditorium is the place, music will be furnished and you are sure to be pleased.

Ernest Threlkeld has just finished breaking five acres of ground to be limed and manured for alfalfa. Ernest is one of our agricultural students who believes it can be done, and I predict he will cut more hay and far better hay than could be cut from fifteen acres of red top. Red top fed to dairy cows serves only as tilth and can not be compared to alfalfa or clover for milk production.

If you are doubtful about the increased yields of clover resulting from the use of lime, ask J. N. Boston or Dr. Frazer for their experiences.
